Música Folklórica de Latinoamérica

Sábado, 8 de marzo de 1986

La distancia que separa a los integrantes de este trío musical de sus respectivos países natales llevó a estos tres latinoamericanos- Aramis Cordal, Sandy Mayor (Uruguay) y Jorge Link (Argentina)- a darle el nombre DISTANCIAS a su grupo. Su repertorio incluye la música folklórica de Uruguay, Argentina, Colombia, Venezuela, Bolivia, Chile y Puerto Rico. El grupo se destaca por su maestría en el uso de instrumentos típicos tales como el charango y el sikus (zampoñas) de la región andina, el tiple colombiano y el cuatro venezolano.

The Folk Music of Latin America

Sat., March 8, 1986 2:00 pm
4th floor auditorium

The distance which separates the three South American folk singers, Aramis Cordal and Sandy Mayor (Uruguay), and Jorge Link (Argentina), from their native countries inspired them to name their musical group DISTANCIAS. Distancias' repertoire features the folk songs of Latin America, principally Uruguay and Argentina, along with songs from Colombia, Venezuela, Chile, Puerto Rico and Bolivia. The performers use indigenous musical instruments such as the charango and sikus from the Andean Highlands, the Colombian tiple, and the cuatro from Venezuela.
